DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance or after an Office action under Ex Parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213 (Comm'r Pat. 1935). Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 17 August 2004 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. The numbering of claims is now improper due to the amendment filed 17 August 2004, which added independent claims 48, 52, 56, 57 and made many original claims depend from the newly added claims.
3. The examiner suggests that applicant cancels all claims and submits a new set of claims grouping claims in proper order to facilitate examination regarding dependency and to avoid inadvertent lacks of antecedent basis throughout the claims.
4. Applicant is kindly requested to point to specific part(s) of the specification for support for the newly added and amended claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claims 48, 2-28, 49-51, 52-55, 30-45, 56, 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The basis of this rejection is set forth in a two-prong test of:

- (1) whether the invention is within the technological arts; and
- (2) whether the invention produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

For a claimed invention to be statutory, the claimed invention must be within the technological art. Mere ideas in the abstract (i.e., abstract idea, law of nature, natural phenomena) that do not apply, involve, use, or advance the technological art fail to promote the “progress of science and the useful arts” (i.e., the physical sciences as opposed to social sciences, for example) and therefore are found to be non-statutory subject matter. For a method claim to pass muster, the recited process must somehow apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts.

As to technological arts recited in the preamble, mere recitation in the preamble (i.e., intended or field of use) or mere implication of employing a machine or article of manufacture to perform some of the recited steps does not confer statutory subject matter to an otherwise abstract idea unless there is positive recitation in the claim as a whole to breathe life and meaning into the preamble. In Bowman (Ex parte Bowman, 61 USPQ2d 1665, 1671 (BD. Pat. App. & Inter. 2001) (Unpublished), the board affirmed the rejection under U.S.C. 101 as being directed to non-statutory subject matter. Although Bowman discloses transforming physical media into a chart and physically plotting a point on said chart, the Board held that the claimed invention is nothing more than an abstract idea, which is not tied to any technological art or environment.

In the present case, claims 48, 52 recite an abstract idea of determining relationship among objects using geometries which can be implemented by the mind of a person or by the use of a pencil and paper. Claims 56, 57 although recited as a system and computer program product merely include components and instructions for solving a mathematical algorithm at best. In other words, since the claimed invention, as a whole, does not apply, involve, use, advance the technological arts, nor produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result, thus it is deemed to be directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 2-28, 30-45, 48-57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Due to the amendment filed 17 August 2004 adding claims 48-57 and revising the dependency of claims 2-28, 30-45, antecedent basis is lacking in many claims for example claim 22, "wherein determining whether the first geometry and the second geometry fulfill the secondary filter condition comprises mathematically comparing the first geometry and the second geometry", claim 23 "the secondary filter condition".

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1, 29, 46, 47 are allowed as indicated in the previous Office Action.
